Are you working on a research project, but having trouble with coming up with a specific topic or keywords you can use to look for research sources? If so, Credo Reference is a database that can help you get a better idea of a certain subject and what sources are out there on similar subjects. It will also give a good idea of what keywords to use when starting to search for more sources.

Credo Reference provides Topic Pages, which offer background information on a particular topic that can give you an easy starting point and pathways for further research; Access to hundreds of in-depth subject encyclopedias and handbooks covering every major subject from Accounting to Art History and Shakespeare to Einstein; and Mind Maps that visually show relationships between topics and keywords.

Unlike Wikipedia, the information found on Credo Reference are credible and citable so it is a good place to go to if you want more information on a topic or you need ideas to narrow down your topic.

Please silence your cell phone while in the library.

We ask that patrons conduct conversations in the courtyard, foyer or side rooms.

If you need to be on a computer and your cell phone, please use the small computer room.

Thank you!
